COLONY GUARD VICTIM OF BAD ASSAULT MONDAY

Prince Rollins, Part Negro,
Slugged Officer Schmid-
dy With Gas Pipe

ASSAILANT ESCAPES

Parole Officers Carter, Here
For Parole Violator, Is Investigating

J. D. Schmidy, aged 65, state officer and deputy sheriff, in charge of the "honor" men at the Dixon epileptic colony, was brutally assaulted late Monday afternoon by Prince Rollins, one of the men sent here from Joliet penitentiary to work. Through the alleged assistance of other "honor" men at the institution Rollins made his escape before the authorities were notified of the assault, which was committed with a heavy piece of gas pipe.

Schmidy is at the Dixon hospital with both jaws broken in the center, a bad scalp wound and several gashes about the head and face.

Without Reason.

According to evidence in the hands of the officers the assault was absolutely unprovoked. Schmidy, who was sent here from the Pontiac reformatory last week to take charge of the convicts employed at the colony, is said to have merely ordered Rollins, who is part negro, to stop his talking and go to work. Without a word the fellow is alleged to have picked up the piece of gas pipe and struck the foreman two vicious blows on the head, the first inflicting a scalp wound at the top of the forehead and the second breaking his jaws.

Knocked Into Ditch.

The blows rendered the victim unconscious and he pitched head first into a ditch, 14 feet deep, beside which they were working, striking the jacks used to retain the sides of the ditch, as he fell. The jacks were the cause of many cuts and bruises about the head and face.

After the assault Rollins is said to have hurried to his room where he gathered his clothes together and threw them from the window. An assistant, whose name the officials had not learned at noon today, is said to have brought the fellow to Dixon in an automobile. Rollins changing his clothing while coming in, and it is believed he walked out of town, for all trains were watched with no trace being found.

Parole Officer Here.

State Parole Officer Bert Carter, who arrived in Dixon yesterday afternoon to take Arthur Previer, a convict also employed at the colony, back to Joliet prison for violation of his parole, remained in Dixon and is now investigating the assault on Schmidy.

In the meantime Previer, who was arrested for disorderly conduct Saturday evening, will remain in the county jail until Mr. Carter completes his investigations.

Previer, who was sent to Joliet from Chicago, was arrested after Miss Bertha Yarde, a 19 year old Tampico girl, had claimed to be his wife and had registered as such at the Bishop hotel. Both parties told the officers that they had intended to be married Saturday and the paroled man had been allowed to leave the colony for that purpose. It developed that Previer and the girl had been together many times during the past few months, and that the girl had passed as Mrs. Previer at her boarding house in North Dixon. She is now in Galesburg.

COMMUNITY SING ON TURKEY DAY

There will be community singing at the Family theatre, at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, led by Mrs. L. E. Edwards. There will be community singing at this same hour in every city in the country, as well as in all of the cantonments, both here and in foreign lands.

ELIMINATE TAX ON AUTOMOBILES

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 26.—Further revision of the war revenue bill the Senate finance committee today struck out entirely the proposed federal license tax on use of automobiles which ranged from $10 to $50 in the house bill, according to the horsepower, and from $5 to $25 under the plan previously adopted by the Senate committee.

CALIFORNIA RABBITS.

Mrs. R. D. Adams has received as a Christmas gift from a friend in California a pair of fine white Angora rabbits and one Himalayan rabbit.

BAD FIRE AT AMBOY MONDAY

Amboy, Nov. 26.—Fire of uncertain origin destroyed the old Illinois Central roundhouse here during the noon hour Monday, and three locomotives in the building were badly damaged by the flames. The fire broke out at about 12:30 o'clock and before help could be summoned the flames had spread so fiercely as to make it impossible to get the large road engines out. The loss is probably about $50,000.

CONSULS WITHDRAWN

BULLETIN.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Lima, Peru, Monday, Nov. 25.—The Peruvian government has not received official dispatches from its consular representatives in Chile for 48 hours, although it has recalled its consuls from Chile. It is believed that a strict cable censorship is in force at all Chilean ports.

A Peruvian steamer at Valparaiso has been ordered to bring home all Peruvians desiring to leave Chile.

The reported cancellation by the Peruvian government of all the exequaturs of Chilean consuls in Peru is incorrect.

Lima is quiet.

Reports from South American capitals Monday night were to the effect that Chile and Peru had severed relations by recalling their consuls from the other country. They have been no ministers exchanged since Chile took possession of the provinces of Tacna and Arica. The two provinces have been called the "Alsace-Lorraine of South America," and have led to controversies not only between Peru and Chile but between Bolivia and Chile.

ially announced that Peru has withdrawn her consuls from Chile as a result of the renewal of anti-Peruvian rioting in Iquique and Antofagasta.

Consul Tells of Violence.

Buenos Aires, Nov. 25.—The Peruvian legation here today received the following dispatch from the Peruvian minister of foreign affairs:

"After the extraordinary outrages at Iquique on Saturday, during which the property of several Peruvians was sacked, Chilean crowds on Sunday attacked the Peruvian consul at Iquique, Senor L. Hosa, while he was on his way to the mayor to protest against the riots.

"He was carried by force aboard a small steamer anchored in the port. The authorities and the police consented to the outrage and notified the consul that they would not permit him to disembark.

"Upon receiving this notice the Peruvian government has withdrawn its consular representatives from Chile."

New dispatches received here indicate that disturbances are general in Iquique, Antofagasta and Pisagua, and that several Peruvian commercial houses have been wrecked in Pisagua.

DENNIS M'BRIDE WAS CALLED THIS MORNING

WELL KNOWN HARMON RESIDENT PASSED AWAY EARLY TODAY—FUNERAL THURS.

Dennis McBride, a prominent citizen of Harmon, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. P. T. Sullivan, in Harmon at 1:45 o'clock this morning. He had been ill for nearly a year, his death being due to complications. Mr. McBride was born in Ireland 79 years ago and came to America when a young man, residing for a while at Philadelphia. At that place he married Miss Ann Riley, later coming west to Lee county, Illinois.

To them eight children were born. Five years ago his wife died and four of the children preceded him in death. The four children living are: Mrs. Martin McVeagh and Mrs. W. H. Snyder, Chicago; Mrs. D. J. Carroll, Aurora, and Mrs. P. T. Sullivan of Harmon.

Funeral services will be held at St. Flannan's church in Harmon, at 9:30 o'clock Thanksgiving morning. Father Moore, pastor of the Harmon congregation, will officiate and burial will be in the Maytown cemetery.

THANKSGIVING EVE DANCE

On Wednesday evening the Dixon orchestra will again give one of their enjoyable dances in Armory hall to which the public is cordially invited.

WHY SPOIL IT FOR THE REST OF THE AUDIENCE?

DIXON HIGH TO PLAY BATAVIA THURSDAY

Change in Plans Will Give Dixon Fans Chance To See Game Thursday

TO RUN SPECIAL CARS

Dixon football team will play a game here on Thanksgiving day instead of going to DeKalb. Their opponents will be the crack team from the Batavia high school. The local players are up on their mettle and anticipate a spirited game. Of course, Dixon expects to win, but they can only win the game after a hard struggle, for the visiting team has some good reputation. Batavia defeated the crack Mendota team 13 to 0. Dixon defeated the Mendota team here with a score of 6 to 0. It is expected that a large crowd will witness the game. Being a holiday, naturally all business will be suspended and this will give everyone an opportunity to witness the game. The local players are entitled to a large attendance and they should have it.

Special cars will be run to the Country club, leaving the Northwestern depot at 2:30 o'clock. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

The line-up of the Dixon team follows:

PUPILS VISIT PLOW FACTORY

The geography classes of the south side high schools spent several hours this forenoon going through the Grand Detour Plow factory. Superintendent Caughey was their guide.

DIXON BOY RAN AWAY YESTERDAY

Delevan Reynolds, the 14-year-old son of Elmer Reynolds, ran away from home yesterday afternoon, getting as far as Rochelle, before he was caught. Deputy Sheriff Schoenholtz went to that city this morning to bring the lad back.

TO STERLING FIVE.

Hon. John P. Devine will deliver the Memorial address to the Elks at Sterling next Sunday.

RICE CONCERT POSTPONED.

Leon Rice, the tenor who was to give two evenings of song at the First M. E. church tonight and tomorrow night has been compelled to postpone tonight's concert until tomorrow night.

Mr. Rice arrived in the city this morning from Freeport and is at the Nachusa Tavern. He sang to a capacity audience last night at Freeport church, Freeport, and contracted a severe cold, and the doctor's orders are that he should not sing tonight.

ALECK BANDI DIED LAST EVE

Aleck Bandi died at the hospital Monday evening at 6 o'clock after an illness of nine days with pneumonia. He was born in Hungary 40 years ago and came to America several years ago, and during most of his residence in America he was an employe at the cement plant. Besides his parents in Hungary he leaves a wife and a daughter, Rose, aged 8 years. Funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian church Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. Jesse Tidball officiating and with burial in Oakwood.

NO PAPER THURSDAY

LEFT OUT IN THE COLD

Senators Think They Should Know Details of Treaty
To Be Approved

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—The more the august senate contemplates the prospective spectacle of President Wilson in France concluding the peace treaty the senate must ratify, the more indignant it becomes.

The senators are beginning to experience the chilly sensation of persons left out in the cold. They have visions of George Creel at the Paris end of the government controlled cable leading the wire with "elaborated" versions of the president's great diplomatic victories over the entente, perhaps over Germany, with "all objectives achieved," while Postmaster General Burleson loads the wire at this end with accounts of public indorsement of any attitude Mr. Wilson may assume.

May Adjourn to Paris.

Inasmuch as the senate has come to the conclusion it is not to be represented in the peace negotiation and inasmuch as it is suspicious of administration control of news chan-

FIRST TROOPS NEARING HOME FROM OVERSEAS

Gen. March Announces that Ships With Soldiers On Board are Near U. S.

NEARLY 7,000 FIGHTERS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—First units of the American Expeditionary Forces to return from overseas are expected to arrive in New York about the end of the present week.

Gen. P. C. March, chief of staff, announced last night that 382 officers and 6,614 men of the air service and other detachments training in England now are homeward bound on the Minnehaha, Lapland and Orca, British liners. The first two ships left Liverpool last Friday and the Orca sailed on Saturday.

This announcement means that the movement of the American troops now in England, the majority of whom are in air service detachments, will continue until all of them, some 20,000, have returned to this country. There are no regiments or other units of line troops in Great Britain. The first movement of the larger units, such as brigades and divisions, will come from French ports.

DRUMMER TO APPEAR AT WALTON THURSDAY

MAJOR ROBERT HENDERSHOTT
AND SON WILL GIVE ENTERTAINMENT THERE.

Major Robert Henry Hendershott, known as "The Drummer Boy of the Rappanock," and his son, H. B. Hendershott will appear in a program of readings and vocal and instrumental solos at the hall in Walton on Thanksgiving night, November 28th, under the auspices of the local dramatic club. The Major and his son have for years featured in G. A. R. and chautauqua entertainments and are said to rank among America's leading experts with the life and drum. Major Hendershott still uses the silver drum presented to him by Horace Greeley for gallantry shown at the battle of Fredericksburg. Referring to him the Marion, Ill., Evening Post says, "There is no question about the major's handling the drumsticks in an artistic manner, but the people were agreeably surprised that he had other pleasing ways of entertaining the audience than beating the drum. The Major's songs and jokes captured the house."

GERMAN PAPER DEMANDS KAISER BE GIVEN TRIAL

Dr. Liebknecht's Organ Says
He Must Be Returned
Before Tribunal

FOR BRINGING ON WAR

Reports From All Parts of Germany Show Extremists Lose Strength

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Berlin, Nov. 26.—"We demand the immediate convening of a revolutionary tribunal for the purpose of passing sentence on the Hohenzollerns, father and son, and on von Bethmann-Hollweg," says the Red Flag, the organ of Dr. Karl Liebknecht, in commenting on the disclosures made in Munich concerning the complicity of Germany in bringing about the war.

"William II must be commanded to return and give an account before this tribunal," the paper says.

The organ also demands a reckoning with the Socialist leaders, Ebert, David and others for participation in propaganda calculated to absolve Germany from responsibility for causing the war.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Berlin, Nov. 26.—Reports of tests of strength between the conservative element and the independent and "Bolshevik" Socialists in various places in Germany continue to indicate that as far as numbers go the extremists are almost negligible.

The election to the Soldiers and Workmen's Council in Dresden on Sunday show that the extremists polled only 4,300 votes against 56,400 for the old Socialists. Both groups of independents won only three or four seats in the council of fifty. Fuller reports from Bremen show that the movement in the coast cities already has turned into a more conservative channel.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Copenhagen, Nov. 26.—Chancellor Ebert is reported in a dispatch from Berlin as having addressed yesterday a conference of 70 delegates from various parts of Germany who gathered in the Chancellor's palace, and to have urged co-operation from throughout the former empire in dealing with the present situation. The conference included a few former diplomats, a number of widely-known deputies who are now taking part in the government of the various states, and also several new men, some of whom were soldiers or sailors.

The chancellor said a socialist republic had replaced the monarchy and power had been put in the hands of the workmen and soldiers. The first aim to be achieved, he continued, was peace and the security of the economic basis. He pointed out that the summoning of a national assembly was necessary to secure the co-operation of the central administrations and the federated states.

The cabinet would on Tuesday, he said, consider a bill for the election of a national assembly.

Kurt Eisner, the Bavarian Socialist premier, protested sharply that Ebert and Dr. Solf, minister of foreign affairs, were compromised by being representatives of the old regime.

POST OFFICE HOLIDAY HOURS

That the employees of the Dixon postoffice may enjoy the holiday, there will be no rural or city delivery of mail on Thursday, Thanksgiving Day. The windows will be open until 10 a. m., during which time patrons may obtain their mail by calling for it, and the lobby of the postoffice will be open all day. No money order or postal savings business will be transacted during the day; but the usual holiday collection and dispatch of mail will be made.

SUSPICION BECOMES CERTAINTY

CHAPTER CIV

The night before, it had hurt Ruth to keep what had happened at the shop away from Brian. The next morning that feeling had entirely disappeared. He would tell her nothing later; not even who had telephoned him at the house—"the apartment for which she paid the rent," she thought, with unusual bitterness. Rarely did Ruth ever think of what she did as her share toward making them comfortable. It was the price she paid for immunity from disagreeable housework which she loathed, and which Brian would have her do rather than work outside.

At breakfast Brian remarked: "I have asked a couple of fellows to dine with me tonight—at the Lafayette. I expected to get in some money yesterday. It didn't show up. I expect it will come all right this morning, but I can't be sure. How much have you about you?"

"About eighteen dollars and a little change."

Heretofore when he had asked her for money Brian had been almost shame-faced, nearly bashful about it. Now his voice had a different tone. It was as though he had said: "I let you leave me to earn money; now hand it over."

It was Ruth who flushed instead of Brian, as without another word she emptied her purse upon the table. "Thanks!" was all he said as he picked up the bills, leaving the silver untouched.

"Shall you be late? I wish you had asked them home, instead of taking them down there," she felt like adding that it would have been cheaper as well, and she would not then have been obliged to spend the evening all alone. His answer made her glad she had said neither:

"I don't care to have these fellows see that my wife works outside. They wouldn't understand it."

So that was it. Brian still felt the embarrassment of her work. She might have said they needn't know it, but she would not so demean herself, her position, so she said nothing.

"Are they anyone I know?" she asked presently.

"No—but they are real fellows."

"What did he mean by accenting that word? That because they were real, they would disapprove of her working? No, that couldn't be it; that would only mean that they were

W. M. A. SERVICE FLAG—

On Wednesday evening at Miller hall the presentation of the Modern Woodmen of America service flag, in which there are thirteen stars, will be made. Atty. Harry Edwards will make the address of the evening. Past Consul of the lodge, Waldo Ward, will make the presentation, and F. D. Palmer will receive it in behalf of the lodge. Other numbers on the program are a vocal duet by Mrs. Morris Rosbrook and Miss Mae Peterson, a piano solo by Miss Helen White, and a reading by Mrs. Trotter. An orchestra is to furnish music for the dancing which is to follow the program. All Woodmen and their families and members of the Royal Neighbour lodge and their families are invited. The program will open at 8 o'clock. The Forester's team is expected to be present in uniform and will assist in the presentation of the service flag. Messrs. Nathan Cortright, Walter Brown and Walter White compose the committee having the affair in charge.

CLASS MEETING—

Mrs. Newcomer's class of St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday school will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight with Miss Mildred Page at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chiverton, 214 Lincoln Way.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE—

There will be Thanksgiving service at the Church of the Brethren on Thursday at 11 o'clock, and a basket dinner at the church.

All the members are especially urged to be present, and anyone who wishes to enjoy the service and the social time with us will be welcome. The offering will be turned over to the General Mission board.

Let every patriotic American citizen heed our president's request, and manifest thanks to Almighty God by attending religious services somewhere on this most glorious Thanksgiving day the present generation has ever witnessed.

RETURNED TO LA GRANGE—

Mrs. R. R. Frye returned to La Grange Sunday after a visit with Mrs. C. A. Todd. Mr. Frye joined her here to spend Sunday.

ANNUAL DINNER PARTY—

The annual dinner of the Peoria Avenue Reading club was held last evening at the home of Mrs. J. N. Sterling, on East Boyd street. Though not quite as elaborate an affair as in previous years, it was nevertheless a delightful party. The table was done in yellow and white, with chrysanthemums as the flowers. The regular afternoon meeting preceded the dinner, at 7 o'clock.

snobs. It must be that it was because Brian disapproved, and they believed in a wife doing as her husband wished her to in such matters. Brian wanted her to stay at home. He could not hide that fact from whoever they were with. He feared these men would discover she was going against his wishes; and rather than have them do so, he would dine them outside of his home.

Did they know of her position, they might also guess the truth—that she earned more than Brian.

"How complicated life is," she thought with a sigh.

Brian was putting on his coat. "Shall you be late?" she asked again. "If you are, I believe I will go to a show. I hate so to remain alone."

"Why don't you? Mandel would probably be delighted to escort you."

The reply was so unexpected, so undeserved, that Ruth quivered with anger. She opened her lips, then closed them tightly. Was Brian so untrue, himself, that he took it for granted she was also?

"No, I shan't be late. So, if you go out I'll probably be home first," and Brian, without a kiss or even a backward look, left her.

"He didn't forget to take the money," she said with a bitter smile. "Neither did he forget to say unpleasant things. The only thing he forgot to do was to be kind, to kiss me good-bye."

Sore at heart, unhappy, disturbed in her mind, Ruth started for work. It seemed to her she couldn't face Mandel without letting him see she was miserably unhappy; that she longed for understanding and some of the joy she deemed hers by right. But when she reached the shop she found he was to be away for the day.

"He will be here tomorrow," Lamonte told her.

All her life Ruth was grateful that Mandel had not been in his usual place that morning. All her life she wondered if, had he been there, she would have been able to have helped him as she had the day before. Fortunately she was not called upon to make any decision. And when she arrived home at night, she ate her dinner alone, then went almost immediately to bed.

Emotion is often more tiring than work. Ruth had both that day.

(Tomorrow—Virtue Its Own Reward)

IN ROCK ISLAND—

Mrs. C. P. Reid is visiting in Rock Island with her husband, Lt. Reid of the arsenal.

TO CHATTANOOGA—

Mrs. Z. W. Moss will leave Friday for Chattanooga, Tenn., where she will join her husband, Lt. Moss.

FROM DAVENPORT—

John Duffy, of Davenport, will arrive here this evening to spend Thanksgiving at the home of his sister, Mrs. Murphy, on Squires ave.

THANKSGIVING HOUSE PARTY—

Mrs. J. M. Batchelder will entertain with a Thanksgiving house party the Misses Gibbons and other friends from Chicago.

METHODIST CHOR—

All members of the Methodist choir are requested by the director to be present at the church for rehearsal at 7 o'clock this evening. The early hour is set in order to be through with the rehearsal before the Leon Rice concert.

—Come to the City Hall meeting

WILSON EXPECTS TO BE GONE SIX WEEKS

Will Spend About A Month In Europe Attending Peace Conference

TO BE NO CENSORSHIP

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 26.—About one month is the time President Wilson expects to be in Europe for the opening of the peace conference and the preliminary discussions. No definite limit has been fixed, but it is said authoritatively that the president plans to be back on "home soil" within six weeks after his ship sails for the other side.

It also became known today that the Italian ambassador as well as the French ambassador and the American peace delegation will be on the ship with the President.

Preparations for the trip are going forward rapidly, though still surrounded by secrecy. An announcement by the President of the personnel of the peace delegation is expected in a day or two.

It was said today that there was no foundation for the talk of a censorship over news of the peace conference and that American correspondents would be given all facilities possible for transmitting their dispatches.

REFUSED JUNK PERMIT TO DANIEL KATZ TODAY

CITY COUNCIL MUST HAVE SOME ASSURANCES FROM HIM BEFORE ACTING

Mayor Schmidt and all commissioners were present at the meeting of the city council this forenoon. The petition of Daniel Katz, junk dealer, who has purchased the Sam Rubenstein business, asking to have the Rubenstein license transferred to him, was refused. The council demands that Katz take out a license for the unexpired term and also agree not to conduct the junk yard now on Highland avenue. After a reply from Katz the council will again consider the matter.

On motion of Mayor Schmidt, Commissioner Dysart was authorized to install a fountain at Depot avenue and Seventh street, some distance east of where the former fountain was located.

WINTER SETS IN ON RUSSIAN LINE

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Archangel, Nov. 26.—Winter has begun in earnest, over the whole northern Russian front. All rivers are ice-bound and the Bolshevik gunboats which have long menaced the Americans and allied forces on the Dvina have been forced to withdraw to escape being frozen in.

The Bolsheviks, however, have mounted guns along the banks of the allied allied army.

The cold is so intense in some sections of the front that the soldiers sleep with their blankets pulled up to their heads to prevent the water-cooling chambers of the guns freezing.

FOOD NOT SO URGENT, AUSTRIA

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Berne, Switzerland, Nov. 26.—Madame Schimmer, of Ford peace party fame, who has accepted the post of Hungarian ambassador to Switzerland, being the first woman to receive such an appointment, declared to the correspondent of the Associated Press today that the food needs of Hungary were "nowhere near urgent." However, she said, there is some danger owing to the lack of coal.

LETTERS FROM "OVER THERE"

A package of letters addressed to Dixon people from soldiers in France was received at the Dixon postoffice this morning, evidently having been a part of the 4,500,000 letters received in New York Sunday. The package was made up at the Bordeaux Terminal and is stamped "Teachout & Lovie." The former is Harry Teachout of this city.

DEATHS IN NAVY TOTALLED 1,233

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 26.—Deaths in the navy from "war causes" totalled 1,233, Surgeon General Braisted today told the House Naval committee which is framing the 1920 naval appropriation bill. No figures were given as to death from disease. The bodies of nearly all navy men dying in foreign waters have been returned home.

The Surgeon General said there were 15,000 patients in naval hospitals and that institutions at New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Norfolk were crowded.

IN CHICAGO—

Mrs. Fiala has returned from a two weeks' visit in Chicago.

EGGS AND BUTTER UP IN THE AIR IN CITY

CHICAGO DEALERS MET TODAY TO DISCUSS HIGH PRICES

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 26.—The best quality of table butter selling at retail at 73 1/2 cents a pound in Chicago and strictly fresh eggs quoted at 25 cents a dozen to the consumer with the prospect that the price of both will materially increase before spring, dealers today discussed the causes for the unprecedented high prices.

Decreased production and a largely increased demand due to the war are given as the principal causes for present high prices in the opinion of dealers. Investigation was made in the city by the city commission that the farmer is receiving 50 1/2 cents a pound for butter or a profit of about 4 1/2 cents a pound. Shrinkage and the labor in packing cost 1 1/2 cents a pound, the jobber gets 1 cent a pound, the wholesaler 1 cent a pound, the wholesaler 1 cent a pound and the retailer 6 cents a pound profit.

For strictly fresh eggs the farmer is said to receive 58 to 60 cents a dozen. The country dealer who pays the freight of shipping is allowed 7 cents. There is a loss in handling of four cents and the cost of cartons amounts to 1 cent a dozen. The retailer's profit is given as 6 cents a dozen.

EXAMINATION TO BE HELD JAN. 11

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination to be held at Rock Falls and Dixon on Jan. 11 to fill the position of rural carrier at Harmon, and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from other postoffices in Lee county. The examination will be open to both men and women who are actual residents of the territory of a postoffice in this county. Applications may be obtained at the local, Harmon or Rock Falls postoffices.

Need for Saving and Sharing With Allies Will Be Fully Explained

INVITE ALL TO HELP

To bring before the American people in a forcible manner the need for saving food and sharing it with the Allies and liberated nations, the United States Food Administration has named December 1-7 as "Conservation Week." Conservation is vital to the relief of stricken Europe. The harvest season has come and gone and whatever food is exported must come from our surplus and from our savings, very largely the latter, says the Food Administration. Certain foods such as meats, fats and dairy products, it is true, are produced throughout the year but even these depend largely on feeds and fodder, supplies of which are limited and cannot be replenished until another harvest.

The original pledge made by the Food Administration in behalf of the people of the United States as 17 1/2 million tons of food to be shipped overseas by July 1, 1919. This amount of food is 50 per cent greater than last year. With Belgium and France and other areas liberated and millions in south central Europe clamoring for food, the United States is now undertaking to increase its exports from 17 1/2 to 20 million tons. The Mediterranean sea routes are now sufficiently safe for bringing wheat from India and Australia. Hence our exports will consist largely of fats, meats and feed. Feed is essential for milk production, of which the stricken nations are in critical need.

Conservation week, as planned, will include a message from Mr. Hoover to the people through churches, fraternal bodies, clubs, schools, posters, window displays and the press. An effort will be made to warn of the serious results abroad if we fail to heed the requests for continued conservation. Food, we are reminded, is the only effective weapon with which to combat the famine still threatening hungry millions. And never has there been so great an opportunity for women and children, as well as men, to show their true spirit of democracy in sending relief by daily acts of food saving.

Conservation week is intended also to impress upon everyone that the stopping of hostilities or even the ultimate signing of peace terms produces no extra food and that human lives will continue to be sacrificed unless food is saved in this country and properly distributed among those who have pitifully little to spare.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

PUNISH KAISER

TO THE EDITOR: There must be personal punishment for the super-criminals of this war. They must be brought before an international tribunal, tried for definite violations of international law (like the ravishing of Belgium, the sinking of the Lusitania, the bombing of Red Cross hospitals, the starving and brutaliz-ing of helpless civilians on land and sea) and sentenced to personally pay the clearly provided penalties for these crimes, so that posterity may never forget their wickedness. Napoleon Bonaparte was personally punished for his crime. Charles
Stuart was personally punished.
Nicolas Romanoff has been personally punished. And now William Hohenzollern must be personally punished.

No money indemnities, no territorial adjustments, no over-throw of Prussian autocracy can relieve their arch-criminal and his guilty advisors from their personal responsibility for this war and its hideous consequences. They must suffer in their own bodies for their own sins. The dead would rise from their graves on the battlefield if these monsters of cruelty and rapacity escape personal punishment.

I believe that an overwhelming majority of American citizens will cry out in horror against any peace that does not provide adequate personal punishment for those who deliberately by their own acts brought upon the world the greatest misery mankind has ever known.

Very truly yours,
CLEVELAND MOFFETT,
Member Board of Trustees, American Defense Society.

ILLINOIS CELEBRATES 100TH BIRTHDAY SOON

Governor Lowden Calls On People to Properly Commemorate Event

THE PROCLAMATION

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 26.—A new significance is attached to the celebration of December 3, the centennial of the formal admission of Illinois into the Union, because of the ending of the world war in which Illinois has played such an important part. The Illinois Centennial Commission is preparing an elaborate program for the occasion at Springfield, and throughout the entire state, school and community celebrations will be held at the same time.

The Centennial Commission is urging that the celebrations be forward looking in preparation for the beginning of the second century of statehood and this will be the tone throughout.

The celebration at Springfield will consist of a large mass meeting in the evening, preceded by a formal dinner. Invitations are being sent to governors and public men of other states and a large attendance is expected. Several invitations have been issued to men of national reputation to come as speakers but the Centennial Commission is not yet ready to announce the program. However, it promises that the speakers will include two or three men of wide reputation.

December 3 is the last event of Centennial Year. The Centennial celebration began on December 3 of last year with the observance of the beginning of the one-hundredth year of statehood. At that time, a banquet was held at which the living ex-governors—Joseph W. Fifer, Richard Yates, Charles S. Deneen and Edward F. Dunne—were invited guests, and Governor Lowden presided. Former Governor Deneen was unable to be present and his place on the program was taken by United States Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman.

The next event in Centennial Year was the celebration of Lincoln's birthday. This was followed by the observance of April 18, the centennial of the adoption of the Enabling Act which permitted Illinois to form a state. On July 4, the Centennial Commission, Governor Lowden and other state officers made a pilgrimage to Kaskaskia, where a celebration in honor of the state's first capital and the one hundredth anniversary of the capture of Kaskaskia by George Rogers Clark was held.

On September 25 a celebration was held at Vandalia, the second capital of Illinois.

An August 26, an elaborate celebration was held at the State Fair Grounds in Springfield, in honor of the adoption of the first constitution. At this time, former President Roosevelt was the principal speaker. On October 5, a celebration was held in honor of the centennial of the inauguration of the first governor and the meeting of the first General Assembly, with Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels and Lord Charnwood as the principal speakers. The foundation of the new Centennial Memorial Building was laid at that time.

Congress formally approved the new constitution of Illinois and accepted the territory as the twenty-first state on December 3, 1818, consequently, the celebration on that date closes the period of preparation for statehood.

"On December third, it will be a full hundred years since Illinois was formally admitted into the Union of States. We have celebrated our Centennial Year with fitting observance in every part of the State. These celebrations have been occasions whereon our people have found in our past achievements their highest inspiration for meeting the solemn duties of the present year.

"Our Centennial Year now draws to a close. At almost the same time the world-wide war has also reached its end. Illinois has played a part in that war worthy of her first great century. Her sons have given their lives on a score of battlefields that the principles of liberty and justice to all men, for which her Lincoln lived and died, may become the rule of all the world.

"During this time within our borders party clamor has been silenced, religious differences have been hushed, and all classes of our people have shown equal zeal and equal patriotism in the support of the war.

"The gates of the new century swing ajar. The mighty problems of peace are upon us. With the reorganization of our State Government, with a new Constitutional Convention before us, with a new system of highways to be built, Illinois is preparing to meet these problems. So, on December third, grateful for our first great century, let us plan how we shall make our second century, in achievement, match the first."

FRANK O. LOWDEN.

LARGEST ORGANIZATION OF ITS KIND IN COUNTRY

The Siniissippi-Woodlawn
Farms, To Which Dixon
Man Goes, Big System

CHAS. HEY, MANAGER

Among the interesting news items picked up around the Holstein sale barn was the announcement by J. T. Williams, manager of the Siniissippi farms of Gov. Lowden's, that Charles R. Hey, of the Hill Den Farms Company would after March first become associated with the Siniissippi-Woodlawn Farm Organization as the managing partner of the famous Siniissippi Home, farm of Gov. Lowden, which farm has up to the present time remained separate from the rest of the Siniissippi farms.

The success of the Siniissippi farms under the Woodlawn plan of operation has been such that the governor has determined to turn over the home farm to be operated along with the rest of the farms in the Siniissippi-Woodlawn organization.

Mr. Hey has already, for a young man, made a considerable success as a breeder of Holstein cattle and pure bred hogs and as the managing partner of the Siniissippi Home Farm, which hereafter will be known as Siniissippi Farm No. 7, Mr. Hey will have a splendid opportunity to exercise his ability as a live stock breeder.

It is the intention of the management to carry a very large herd of extra choice pure bred and registered Holstein cattle on that farm and in addition to also breed pure bred hogs. It might be interesting to some of our readers to know that the Siniissippi-Woodlawn Farms Organization is the largest Holstein organization in the United States. There are now ten Siniissippi Farms in this organization with an acreage of over four thousand acres, there are eleven Woodlawn Farms with an acreage of over two thousand acres, making all told over six thousand acres in this organization under the direct executive management of J. T. Williams of Sterling, Ill., who is the owner and president of Woodlawn Farm Company. The entire twenty-one farms are operated on the Woodlawn plan in which each farm as far as its operation is concerned is a separate unit only converging in the parent organization from a selling standpoint. Each man operating a Siniissippi or Woodlawn farm is directly responsible for the operation of that farm and shares in the results obtained.

On the farms in the organization there are now over six hundred head of pure bred Holstein cattle and it is the intention of the management to gradually increase this number to one thousand head.

He will, however manage the Hill Den Farms along with the Siniissippi-Woodlawn organization.

FORMER KING CHARLES PLEADS FOR PEOPLE

Charles Tells an Associated Press Correspondent Of Need of Assistance

ASKS ABOUT WILSON

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Vienna, Nov. 25.—Declaring there is a pressing need for assistance from America and the allies, former Emperor Charles pleaded for assistance for his country today, as he asserted the danger from the Bolsheviks is very great. In an interview with an Associated Press correspondent the former Emperor told of the peril. He and his family were at their castle at Eckartsau, with a few faithful friends.

An interview with the former emperor was granted the Associated Press correspondent after the request had been transmitted by the President of the Council of the Austria-German republic. After motoring 23 miles the correspondent came to the castle which stands in the center of a vast plain, devoted to farming and dotted with villages. "Everywhere men and women were busy digging beet roots. When the correspondent entered the gates he was met by an officer who conducted him to the second story of the castle, where he was received by the former ruler. Charles wore a General's uniform and was apparently vigorous and in good health, but he shows that he suffered keenly through the collapse of his empire. He greeted the correspondent cordially and gripped his hand heartily.

His Interview.
Motioning the correspondent to a chair by a center table, and taking another, he spoke first in English and then in French:

"I authorize the Associated Press to state that not for a single day should America and the allies delay in helping the people here, so grave is the situation. If food and coal are not brought soon we shall have disorder and possibly Bolshevism. My people are kind and patient, but anyone without food is apt to violent things. Regarding the future—I cannot look backwards, although I feel that I did my duty—I trust the future will bring peace, good fortune, happier days and a better understanding to all peoples."

There was no sign of bitterness on the part of the former emperor toward the allies. He was greatly concerned, however, over the reports much heard concerning his private life, especially that rumor concerning his drunkenness. As a matter of fact he takes but one glass of wine at luncheon, and absolutely no liquors at dinner. After talking to the Associated Press man for half an hour he asked if President Wilson was well, and he expressed no surprise when informed that the President had grown whiter since the United States entered the war.

SENATORS ARE ANGRY OVER WILSON'S ACTS TO CENSOR ALL NEWS

nels, senators are beginning to discuss ways and means of obtaining the information necessary to proper consideration of the treaty the president eventually will submit to them.

A distinguished Republican senator from the middle west has drafted a resolution proposing that the senate adjourn as a body to Paris and there hold its sessions during the period at least that the president is in attendance on the peace conference. The senator contends that it surely is as necessary for one part of the treating making power as for the other to have first hand knowledge of the peace negotiations.

The author of the resolution submitted it to the Democratic chairman of the senate committee to which it would be referred, and the Democrat indorsed the move and promised the measure consideration.

May Send Marshall Over
Another suggestion put forward is that Vice-President Marshall be sent to France to attend the peace conference as the senate's "liaison officer."

It is not at all improbable that several members of the foreign relations committee will take up their residence in Paris during the negotiations, providing they can obtain passports from the administration. Inasmuch as the treaty will be passed upon by the Republican senate of the next congress it has been suggested that Senator Lodge, who will be chairman of the foreign relations committee after March 4 next, and several other Republican members should go to obtain the desired information.

The government seizure of the cable lines on the eve of the president's departure has aroused fear in certain quarters of the suppression of developments at the Paris conference, on which it is necessary for the American people to form opinions and also the suppression of American public opinion of which it is vital that the president be informed.

In this connection, the pressure of public opinion regarding the "unconditional surrender" note to Germany is cited.

Time of Conference Doubtful.

The date for the convening of the peace congress will not be decided until after President Wilson's arrival in Europe, it was intimated today. It also was indicated at the state department that the extension of the armistice with Germany was a military matter, which, therefore, lies wholly in the discretion of Marshal Foch.

Officials here appear not to share the view expressed in some allied capitals that the present German government is incapable of executing treaties, and if the statements of authorities here reflect the sentiment of the allied governments the negotiation of peace will not be dependent upon the perfection of the new constitution of Germany, but the existing German government would be required to give evidence that it represents the German people.

I will not drink from a German cup.
Or eat from a German plate.
I will not deal with a German man.
All foul with German hate.

I'll use no drug with a German name.
That's grown on German land.
I'll eat no food and drink no beer
If made by a German hand.

I will not use a German tool,
Razor, or knife, or saw.
I will not trade with a German shop
That lives by the German law.

I will not sail on a German ship,
Where German songs are sung.
I will not breathe where God's clean air
Is soiled by a German tongue.

I'll not forget those awful deeds,
To girls and little boys.
No more I'll hang on Christmas trees
Those blood-stained German toys.

I will not take a German's word,
He'll break it if he can.
There is no love in a German heart,
Or faith in a German man.

This is my oath, when war is done,
I'll swear to keep it true.
And since I know you feel the same,
I'll pass it on to you.

The Little Fortune

After quite a long time they told me to get up. I refused, not knowing what they meant to do with me. I began to struggle. Then the younger man drew a hypodermic needle from his pocket and injected a drug of some sort into my arm.

"Under its influence I fell into a gradually increasing stupor. I no longer resisted. Then they walked me out between them into the corridor and along the deck to a staircase which is not used by passengers and leads to the lower deck aft, where many of the storage rooms of the vessel are located. Both men seemed quite familiar with the interior arrangements of the vessel.

"How they were able to go all this distance, even at three o'clock in the morning, without meeting some one, I cannot imagine. At last they reached the lower deck and went along a narrow corridor upon which opens the room in which I was found. They cut the cords which bound me, removed the gag they had placed in my mouth, and left me lying on the floor. I was so completely overcome by the drug they had given me that I remember this part of the affair indistinctly.

"The next thing I remember was waking up, feeling very sore and ill. In the room used for the storage of explosives. I did not know where I was, of course, when I first regained my senses, but gradually, as I came to, I remembered what had happened.

"It was quite dark when I opened my eyes, and for a long time I could not imagine where I was. Then I managed to strike a match which I had in my pocket, and from the objects which the room contained I saw I was in the storeroom. I also saw on the floor the two packages which Haussman had taken from the trunk in his room.

"One, as I soon discovered, was a small demijohn of water. The other contained some tins of meat and biscuits. Evidently they did not intend that I should starve.

"I immediately began to beat upon the door and make as much noise in every way as I could, but despite my cries for help no one came to my assistance.

"I was not greatly surprised. This room, because of the explosive nature of its contents, is located in a remote position in the after part of the lowest deck, and in a location seldom visited by any one on board, except when signal rockets or Coast lights, or the like, are needed for making signals of distress. I pounded on the door for what seemed hours, but to no purpose. Then I ate some biscuit, drank some water from the demijohn, and slept.

"And that, gentlemen, is what I have continued to do until I was discovered an hour ago. I am glad that my rescue was not delayed longer, as my supply of both water and food was practically exhausted.

"During the time the vessel lay at the dock in New York I renewed my efforts to make myself heard, but all to no purpose. I suppose — he glanced at the first officer with a smile — "that it was purely an accident that I was overheard to-day."

Mr. Beauregard nodded. "Purely so, I imagine. I had sent two men to a room near the one where you were confined to get some extra canvas for renewing a width in the wind-shield forward. It had become torn. They heard your knocking above the sound of the machinery and the rush of the vessel through the water. They were greatly frightened, and reported the matter to me at once. The rest you know."

Captain Bonnot turned to Duval. "A very remarkable occurrence, M. Lefevre. However, it appears to explain satisfactorily a number of matters which up to now have seemed inexplicable."

"Remarkable indeed," assented Duval. "But instead of explaining matters, as far as I can see, it has only made them more complicated than ever."

"How so, monsieur?"

"Knowing what we do now, how can we explain the presence of the dead man in the forward hold—a man whom you all agreed was in appearance, in dress, in every way, the purser, George Vernon? And how can we further explain that in that man's pocket was found the envelope which held Mr. Morris's package, the seal broken, and a forged letter substituted for the one it had originally contained?"

The captain rubbed his chin in some confusion.

"I confess," he said, "that I had quite forgotten that phase of the matter. It is, indeed, most mysterious."

"I have no objection, captain," went on Duval, "I should very much like to make an examination of the room in which Mr. Vernon was confined."

"By all means, if you think it worth while," returned Bonnot, raising his eyebrows. "At the same time, monsieur, I fail to see just what you can hope to accomplish there. One thing we know for certainty, Mr. Vernon is here. The man Gunther, whose name, I understand, was in reality, Reinhardt, is dead. His murder, as well as the rest of the affair, was the work of the mysterious character who calls himself at different times Haussman, Hartmann, and Charles Vernon. Without wishing to give you any advice, I advise you to stay where you are."

"The captain shrugged his shoulders and opened the door. Clearly he was disgusted with the outcome of the detective's work.

"When you find out anything of interest, monsieur," he said, "with a slight touch of sarcasm, 'I shall be at your service. Just now I must go to the bridge.'"

Duval returned to the deck. The woman passenger was still sitting in her deck-chair reading. She seemed not to have changed her position. The detective at once sought his state-room. A tap on the door brought his wife to him.

"Grace," he said, "I want you to watch that woman in No. 105."

"But Richard, how can I. She is sure to recognize me."

"You must adopt some sort of a disguise. There is no other way. I myself shall be busy in another direction." He told her of Vernon's astounding reappearance.

"The next thing to do would be to locate this man and place him under arrest."

Duval smiled ironically.

"I quite agree with you, captain," he said. "I fear that I should have done much better to have remained in New York and continued my investigation there. But since I am here, I would like, largely as a matter of curiosity, to see this room in which our friend here has spent so many unhappy hours. It is barely possible that an examination of the water-bottle and the tins of food with which this man Haussman so kindly provided his prisoner may afford some points of interest." He rose. "Perhaps you M. Beauregard, will be good enough to conduct me."

CHAPTER XV.

A Blind Trail.

The first thing that struck Richard Duval's attention as he glanced about the little room in which Vernon had for so many days been confined, was the fact that the room contained no window or port-hole by which the light of day might enter.

It was an interior room—little more, in fact, than a large closet of steel with rivet-studded sides lined with shelves. An electric lamp projecting from the wall afforded the only means of illumination. The first officer switched on the lamp. "Here is the room," he announced.

Duval went up to the lamp and gazed at it critically, then turned to Vernon, who with Captain Bonnot, had accompanied them. "Lucky you had this light, monsieur," he said, "otherwise you would have been in total darkness for nearly eight days."

"Yes," remarked Vernon, "it was indeed lucky."

"And this, I suppose," Duval continued, "is the water-bottle—and these the biscuit and meat tins. I see that you were forced to open them with your pocket-knife."

"Yes," Vernon assented with a faint smile, taking out a large pocket-knife and exhibiting its jagged blade. Duval examined the articles critically. The demijohn might have come from anywhere—New York, Paris, London. It was quite characteristic. The biscuit-tin showed that it came from an English source. The tins of meat were plainly American.

"Nothing of any value about these," he remarked presently as he replaced them on the floor. "Haussman, or whatever his real name is, might have gotten them almost anywhere. They must have had this plot pretty well worked out in advance, judging by the completeness of their preparations."

"Evidently," remarked Captain Bonnot. "Is there anything else, M. Lefevre, that you wish to see here?"

Duval took a final glance about the room. "Nothing more, I think," he replied, and turned to the door. "I congratulate you, Mr. Vernon," he said as they left the place. "You have come happily through a most unpleasant experience."

As they went toward the deck, Vernon and Beauregard left them. They appeared to be close friends. Duval went on with the captain.

"I would like to speak to you for a moment, monsieur," he said to the latter as they reached the main deck. "Can you spare me a little time?"

"Certainly." He led the way to his cabin. "What can I do for you?"

"Captain Bonnot," exclaimed Duval, when they had seated themselves, "I assume, of course, that you know George Vernon quite well."

"Assuredly. Why?"

"Are you sure that this man who has just left us is George Vernon?"

The captain laughed heartily. "My dear Lefevre," he cried. "This is too absurd. Of course he is. Why do you ask?"

"I can hardly say," replied Duval, shrugging his shoulders. "Of course, if you feel so sure, my theory falls to the ground."

"And what was that theory?"

"That the man who was locked in that room is not George Vernon at all."

"Not George Vernon at all? exclaimed Bonnot. "Then who, may I ask, do you think him to be?"

"I believe that he is the man we have known as Hartmann, and who may or may not be George Vernon's twin brother."

"But, my dear Lefevre, that is impossible. I know Mr. Vernon quite well."

"There have been remarkable cases of resemblance, monsieur. I have come across many in my time. I believe this fellow to be Hartmann, and I further believe that he came aboard this ship last night or this morning. George Vernon is dead and buried, and this man is an impostor. That is my theory."

Captain Bonnot rose, and taking a cigar from his desk, proceeded to light it.

"Unless you can advance a more reasonably theory than that, monsieur, I greatly fear that you will arrive at no tangible results. The man is Vernon beyond a doubt. And now, tell me, what have you discovered concerning this woman whom you have had under observation?"

"Nothing, so far. She has made no move whatever that affords any clue to her part in the affair."

The captain shrugged his shoulders and opened the door. Clearly he was disgusted with the outcome of the detective's work.

"When you find out anything of interest, monsieur," he said, "with a slight touch of sarcasm, 'I shall be at your service. Just now I must go to the bridge.'"

Duval returned to the deck. The woman passenger was still sitting in her deck-chair reading. She seemed not to have changed her position. The detective at once sought his state-room. A tap on the door brought his wife to him.

"Grace," he said, "I want you to watch that woman in No. 105."

"But Richard, how can I. She is sure to recognize me."

"You must adopt some sort of a disguise. There is no other way. I myself shall be busy in another direction." He told her of Vernon's astounding reappearance.

Grace could scarcely believe him. "Of all the strange tales!" she cried. "In my opinion," said her husband, "every word of this fellow's story is a lie."

"But Richard, what reason could Mr. Vernon have for not telling the truth?"

"I don't believe the fellow is Vernon at all."

"Not Vernon at all? Then who?"

"Hartmann!"

"But—how is that possible? The resemblance—"

"I know. He may really be Vernon's twin brother. It is by no means unlikely, and would explain the whole affair. Hartmann is only an assumed name. I believe Vernon is dead. I believe Hartmann is the man who killed him. Later, he took advantage of this resemblance to assume the part of Vernon's brother. I believe that he came aboard this vessel last night, after eluding the police, and brought that water-bottle and those tins of food with him. As for locking himself in the storeroom—that was easy. He had all of Vernon's keys."

That was how he also had the key to his apartment."

"But—why do you think that he was not in the storeroom all that time?"

"There are several reasons. They are slight ones, but to my mind conclusive. In the first place, why was his first move, on being liberated, to shave?"

"Why, to remove the eight days' growth of his beard, of course. That seems quite reasonable to me, I must say."

"Why not to remove one day's growth, so that no one could see that he had not been there the other seven. Beauregard, in the excitement of the moment, probably did not observe him closely—did not, in fact, notice whether he was shaved or not. Most people don't notice such things at times like that. He hastens off to shave—a queer thing, you must admit. Now, no one, not even Beauregard himself, can say whether, when discovered, he had a growth of one day or eight. That is my first reason."

"It seems rather slim, Richard. What are the others?"

"I remarked to him that he had been obliged to open the tins with a pocket-knife. He assented. At the time I saw plainly enough that they had been opened by means of a can-opener. The regular, even cutting of the tin makes me positive of it."

"But where did he get a can-opener?"

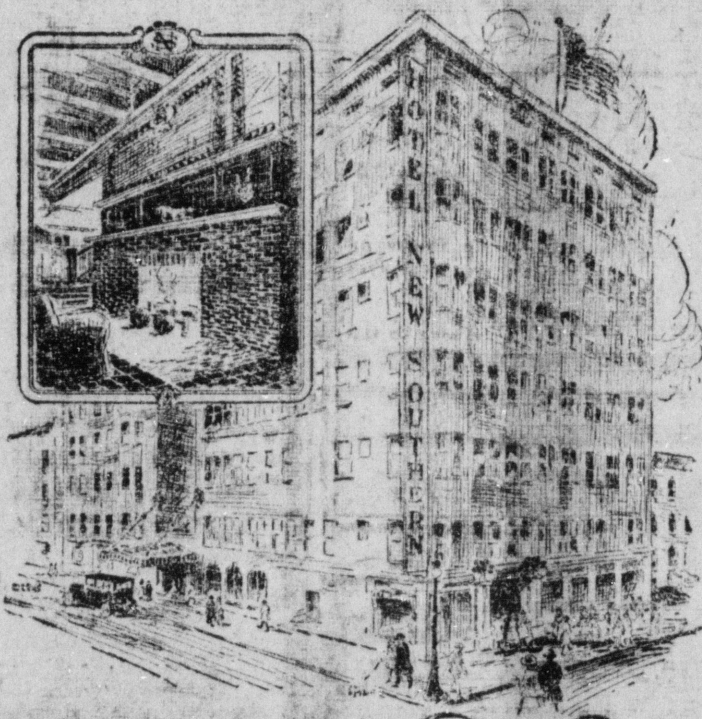

"Don't you see? The tins were opened and emptied before he came on board."

"Ah, I see! Still, you may be mistaken. He might have opened them with a knife. And your other reason?"

(To be continued.)

William Dennis of Hagerstown, Mr. arrived here Thursday and is visiting his son, Howard, west of town. He will also visit his son, Frank, while here.

Solestine Guio.

Solestine Guio was born in Akron, O., Oct. 14, 1835. He spent his boyhood and early youth in Ohio and Michigan. Being left an orphan at the age of seventeen, he began farming for himself and continued at this work until the spring of 1860, when he went to Kansas, intending to make that state his home. He returned in the fall of the same year, settling in Ogle county, where he farmed until 1907, when he moved to his present home in Polo. February 27, 1868, he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Pyter, who was born in Lancaster, Pa. To this union were born nine children, all of whom are living: Rozella and Lillian residing at home; Mrs. Louisa Reed and Mrs. Sadie Mayborn, of Polo; George, Henry and Mrs. Fannie Pettitt of Los Angeles, Cal.; Amos of Rochelle and Oliver of Indianapolis, Ind.

Eleven weeks ago while enjoying a visit at the home of his son, Oliver, Mr. Guio suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which he never recovered, dying at his home in this city November 15, aged 83 years, 1 month and 1 day.

Besides his wife and children he leaves ten grandchildren, two great-grandchildren and one sister, who lives in Michigan. Funeral services were held at the M. E. church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. H. Pierce.

Mrs. Minnie L. Hamaker, Minnie L. Shuber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Shuber, was born in Polo, November 30, 1879. Much of her life was spent here, but has also resided at Rochelle and Alberta, Canada.

She was married twenty years ago to Mr. Arthur C. Hamaker, and they moved to Calgary, Alberta, Canada, five years ago, where they purchased a ranch. Two children were born to them: Elmer, aged 14, and Imo, aged 8 years. Mrs. Hamaker was here on a visit to her old home with her father and sister, when death overtook her.

About ten days ago she was taken with pleuro-pneumonia and passed to her reward the day after her birthday. Mr. Hamaker was summoned, but death came before he and the children could arrive. Those who remain to mourn beside the husband and children are an aged father, Mrs. A. Beck of Whitewater, Kan., Mrs. S. O. Domer and Mrs. John Wilson and Mrs. S. C. Clark of Polo and a brother, E. C. Shuber of Clinton, Ia., who was too ill to attend the funeral. Another sister died two months ago as the result of a bomb explosion at the postoffice in Chicago.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. S. C. Clark, Rev. W. H. Pierce officiating. Interment was made in Fairmount cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Spear left last Thursday for Norfolk, Neb., where she will spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. William B. Beck.

An International Service Built on Tiny Profits Per Pound

Some industries have been able to get in step with war demands more quickly than others.

In many cases mighty plants have sprung up—but at a prodigious cost.

The packing industry was able to adapt itself to unheard of demands more quickly, perhaps, than any other industry. And this was because the vast equipment of packing plants, refrigerator cars, branch houses, etc., had been gradually developed to its present state of efficiency, so that in the crucial hour it became a mighty international system for war service.

And how had this development taken place?

Not by making vast inroads into the capital wealth of the country, but largely by using, from year to year, a portion of the profits, to provide for expansion.

Swift & Company's profits have always been so tiny, compared with sales, that they have had practically no effect on the price of meat, (amounting to only a fraction of a cent per pound).

And yet the owners of the business have been content with reasonable returns on their capital, and have been able, year after year, to put part of the profits back into the business to provide for its expansion.

These fractions of tiny profits have been repaid to the public many fold in the form of better service, and better and cheaper meat, and made it possible for Swift & Company to meet, undaunted, the sudden cry for meat for overseas.

Could any other method of financing a vital industry involve less hardship to the people of the country? Could there be a better instance of true "profit-sharing" than this return in added usefulness and in national preparedness?

Swift & Company,
U. S. A.

O!
A girl on Third st. is a flirt, you bet,
She wants to make a catch;
I know she doesn't smoke, and yet
She'd like to strike a match.

I am under the impression that I can not present another list of better looking persons in your city who will be in the feature than: G. F. Prescott, W. M. Rourke, R. L. Vest, H. E.
Pumphrey, Frank Forman, E. H.
Rickard, Frank Farnum, R. S. Kline,
G. D. Laing, Bert Smice, W. L. Pres-

POINTS TO REMEMBER WHEN BUYING REAL ESTATE

- 1st.—See that the neighborhood and surroundings are good, and that transportation to it is satisfactory.
- 2nd.—Insist that the seller furnishes you with an Abstract of Title.
- 3rd.—If the seller can't furnish an abstract showing a good title, do not buy. Large investors, like Hetty Green and Silo Tompkins, require this, and you should insist upon receiving the same.
- 4th.—If you are "trading" properties, see that the other fellow hasn't inflated the price of his property so that he gets yours for nothing.

This is mighty important, for a couple of trades of this kind would put the other fellow in a gilded chariot and you in the County Home.

5th.—Have the property conveyed to yourself and wife by JOINT TENANCY DEED; then if either of you die, the survivor will own the property without the trouble and expense of going thru the Probate Court.

Go to any good lawyer and he will see to it that you receive the above, and that the hired girl doesn't get the property.

SOLDIERS - SAILORS ATTACK BOLSHEVIKI

Men In Uncle Sam's Uniforms Resent "Red Flag" Meeting in New York

MANY IN THE CHARGE

New York, Nov. 26.—Hundreds of soldiers, sailors and marines broke through a cordon of police surrounding Madison Square Garden last night and attacked the International Socialists who had attended a mass-meeting at which Bolshevik doctrines were expounded. The men and women leaving the hall broke and fled as the men in uniform charged past the police, but were pursued into the side streets in all directions.

The attack on the Socialists came at the close of a meeting which threatened from the moment it began to break into a riot.

It was called ostensibly to protest against the execution of Thomas J. Mooney, but Scott Nearing, who presided, and the other speakers devoted most of their attention to pleas for the release of "political" offenders.

Arrest Red Flag Bearers.

Several men and women were arrested for displaying red flags smuggled into the garden in defiance of an edict by Mayor Hylan. Large numbers of men in uniform entered the building, before the doors were locked, with the avowed determination of preventing attacks upon the
